The search work was carried out on the basis of information received from the Physical Education and Sports Department of the Admiral Makarov National University of Shipbuilding. The students received this information, analysed the terminology they work with in practical English classes and made a translation using the vocabulary they have and the new vocabulary they have learnt while studying this topic.

Key words: sports terminology, lexical minimums, analyse, information.

OLEKSANDR ABRAMENKO

FREESTYLE SKIING

He returned in the pre-Olympic 2017–18 season. There were concerns that Ukraine, for the first time ever, would not qualify any sportsman for men's freestyle skiing due to crisis in Ukrainian freestyle skiing. Abramenko started that season not confidently, finishing 21st in Beijing. But later, his performances improved, and on 19 January 2018, he achieved his eighth podium in Lake Placid, United States. He was then second after China's Jia Zongyang. These results assured him a spot in 2018 Winter Olympics in Pyeongchang, South Korea. At the 2018 Winter Olympics he surprisingly became the winner. Abramenko became the second native of Ukraine to win Olympic gold in freestyle after Anton Kushnir, who in 2014 represented Belarus. On 6 February 2019, he won the silver medal at the World Championships in Utah, United States. It was Ukraine's first World Championships medal in men's aerials. In 2022, Oleksandr Abramenko competed in his fifth Winter Games in Beijing. He won a silver in the Aerials with a score of 116.5.

IGOR TSVETOV

At the summer Universiade, which took place from July 6 to 17 in Kazan, Olena represented Ukraine in academic rowing in the discipline of doubles. And won the bronze award together with Hanna Kravchenko. At the end of January 2017, she set a world record at the distance of 1000 m in academic rowing — 3:05.9. edited 18:03

GRIVKO ANDRIY

CYCLING

Four-time champion of Ukraine in road racing with a separate (2005, 2006, 2008 and 2009 years). Four times (2005, 2006, 2007 and 2010) he took part in the world's most prestigious cycling race – the Tour de France. His best result was 64th place in the overall standings, which he achieved in 2015. Also, twice (stage 17 at the 2005 Tour and stage 13 at the 2006 Tour) Hryvko took the 5th place in some stages of the Tour de France. At the World Cycling Championships 2005, Grivko took 9th place in the time trial. The most successful year in his professional career was 2008. In the same year, in addition to winning the Ukrainian championship, he won the Farenze-Piste race and took fifth place in the group race at the World Championships in Varese, Italy. In 2013, he finished second in the time trial. In the Eneco Tour he took 3rd place.

ATHLETIC

Ukrainian athlete, Honored International Master of Sports of Ukraine.

Four-time winner of Special Olympics champion: 2008 and 2012 and silver and bronze medalist: 2008 and 2012. At the Paralympics in Beijing, Pavlyk won two gold and a silver medal. He competed in a class where athletes have the most serious cerebral palsy lesions. At the Paralympics in London, Pavlyk first won two bronze medals in the 100 and 400 m races; the athlete himself was dissatisfied with the result, as he was aiming for gold. However, he won two more gold medals in the 200m and long jump.

According to Pavlyk's coach, Viktor Derkach, he achieved high athletic results thanks to anthropometric data: shoe size 45 and very long fingers, thanks to which his running is soft and at the same time powerful; and also thanks to fairly rapid recovery after physical activity and self-discipline.

KHARLAN OLGA

FENCING

Olga grew up as an active girl. At first, mom and dad sent her to ballroom dancing. But due to the fact that her parents did not have the funds to pay for training and costumes, Harlan left dancing. But in 2001, she began practicing saber fencing, where you could train for free. Olya fell in love with this sport after the very first training. Already a year later, Harlan made her debut in adult competitions, at the Cup of Ukraine. Then Olga took the last place. However, the defeat not only did not upset her, but also became a certain incentive.

Later, Olga achieved what no athlete in the history of Ukraine has achieved in such a short time: already in 2003, Olga became the owner of the Cup of Ukraine, leaving behind more experienced athletes. The following year, the Ukrainian took part in the European Junior Championship. The path to the finals was difficult for Harlan. In the quarter-finals and semi-finals, she lost, but won strong-willed victories. In the end, Olga won the silver. In 2005, the Ukrainian took third place at the Junior World Championship. At the age of fourteen, she became a master of sports of international class.

In the 2005/2006 season, Harlan won several stages of the Junior World Cup and also took two bronze medals. However, she had to miss the World Championship due to an injury. At the continental championship, Harlan was just one shot short of gold. In the final, Olga lost to the Russian Sofia Velyka with a score of 14:15.

In 2007, the Ukrainian became the world champion among juniors. In addition, as part of the Ukrainian national team, she became the winner of the World Cup. Also, in the team tournaments of the world and European championships, Ukrainian women and Olga won silver. In 2009, Harlan defeated Russian Kateryna Dyachenko 15:10 in the final of the European Championship. At the same tournament as part of the national team, Olga was again the best. In the decisive matches, the Ukrainian women defeated the Russian women with a score of 45:31. And the very next year, Olga took three stages of the Grand Prix and took second place in one more. She rose to second place in the world ranking. True, Harlan failed the continental singles championship, taking only fifth place. But in the team competition, the Ukrainian national team again had no equal.

In 2012, in singles at the European Championship, Harlan defended the title of the best saber player of the Old World. In the team saber, as a year earlier, the Ukrainian women were only second. At the London Olympics, Olga lost to Sofia the Great in the semifinals, and in the match for third place, Mariel Zagunis won and won bronze.

In 2013, Olga became the world and European champion in singles. She also won a gold award in the team tournament of the world championship. But at the European Championship, Ukrainian women came second. In the same year, Olga won the Universiade for the second time. In 2014, Harlan was again the best, both at the Old World tournament and at the world championship.

Olena Khomrova

FENCING

The Ukrainian saber (fencer) with numerous achievements. She won a silver medal at the 2003 Junior European Championships and became the world champion among cadets the same year. In 2007, Olena Khomrova claimed the gold Olympic medal in team saber fencing at the Beijing Olympics alongside Olha Kharlan, Halyna Pundyk, and Olha Zhovnir; she also became the silver medalist at the 2007 Summer Universiade in Bangkok. At the 2008 European Championships, she won silver in team events and bronze in individual events. In 2009, she demonstrated her mastery at the Grand Prix tournaments and the European Championships, where she, along with her team, become European champions for the first time.
